

2020 CENSUS STORIES FOR CHANGE

ABOUT

Stories for Change is an expanding and downloadable series of video stories, quote graphics, and infographics featuring storytellers and census advocates connecting census participation to a wide spectrum of advocacy, including racial justice, immigration, disability, labor, and faith.

Each featured participant speaks directly to their own communities on the opportunity the 2020 Census presents to claim the funding, resources, and political power communities deserve.

Stories for Change eases the burden on census digital organizers so they can keep their focus on getting people counted by employing authentic storytelling as a powerful organizing tool. When people see themselves in the census, when they understand the future they could build with more resources and more political power, they get counted.

As Census Counts mobilizes to get communities counted in the wake of coronavirus, digital outreach is more important than ever. This collection of digital assets, produced by NextDayBetter, is designed to be ready-made content usable for digital organizing including, social media, textbanking, paid media, and email.

LARA KISWANI

ON THE VISIBILITY AND DIGNITY OF ARAB AMERICANS

ABOUT

Lara Kiswani was raised to be proud of her Palestinian family's history and culture. Her work with Arab Resource and Organizing Center focuses on building power in the Arab and Muslim community in the Bay Area. Alongside the Arab American Institute, Lara advocates for an accurate count to advance Arab American interests.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

"We are deprioritized in everything, down to a lack of translated material in Arabic to deal with the COVID-19 pandemic." Lara Kiswani explains how #ArabAmericans can build power by participating in the census. #CensusCounts

ON INCLUSIVE HEALTHCARE FOR PEOPLE OF ALL ABILITIES

SEE ALL STORIES

ABOUT

As the Autism Waiver Service Coordinator of The Arc of Prince George's County, Elizabeth Graham helps families with children access Medicaid services, so they receive support in their homes. Elizabeth, who is also on the autism spectrum, knows firsthand how getting counted in the census helps fund support and services for people with disabilities.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

"I am a transgender woman of color on the autism spectrum. I answered the #2020Census to give people with disabilities a fair chance," says Elizabeth Graham, who wants to ensure that everyone has access to healthcare.

ON CLAIMING AN EQUITABLE WORLD FOR BLACK AMERICANS

SEE ALL STORIES

ABOUT

Rev. Dr. James Perkins, of Detroit's Greater Christ Baptist Church, wants to see a real investment in Black people's lives – in schools, healthcare, food programs. As a person of faith, he believes that everyone deserves the support they need to live healthy, safe, and dignified lives and knows the census is key to building Black communities.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

"Every person counts in the eyes of God and every person must count in the eyes of the government," says Pastor James Perkins, who calls all people of faith to get counted in the #2020Census to ensure Black communities have the resources they need to thrive.

TYMBER HUDSON

ON PROTECTING AND SUPPORTING ALL LGBTQ+ YOUNG PEOPLE

SEE ALL STORIES

ABOUT

As a non-binary person who grew up in the foster system, Tymber Hudson wants to see LGBTQ+ kids grow up thriving, and not merely surviving. They are advocating for an accurate count so LGBTQ+ young people, especially in foster care, have access to resources, better funding, and the right programs to set them up for a more hopeful future.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

"I encourage everyone to join in claiming our power – to fight for what our community deserves," urges Tymber Hudson. As a non-binary person, they understand what it means to be unseen. As an LGBTQ+ youth advocate, they want all young people, especially those in foster care, to have the resources to thrive in society. This is why #CensusCounts.

Political change starts with building political power, and everyone can build their power by being counted.

PATRICIA BEDOYA

ON DIGNIFIED WORK AND A SECURE FUTURE FOR ALL IMMIGRANTS

SEE ALL STORIES

ABOUT

Patricia Bedoya is a homecare worker who, with labor union SEIU, is fighting for dignified work conditions, beginning with being provided with the personal protective equipment (PPEs) they need. She asks everyone, especially immigrants working for a better life, to participate in the census to address the need for improved lives of workers and their families. Everyone, regardless of citizenship, must be counted.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

"We must show up in the census to put us in a stronger position to demand accountability from our representatives," says Patricia Bedoya, advocating for labor and immigrant rights. She knows that being counted in the #2020Census is as vital as protesting when it comes to demanding change.

FIRST NATIONS DATA SCIENTIST AND ACTIVIST

SEE ALL QUOTES

ABOUT

First Nations data scientist Dr. Kai TwoFeathers Orton is concerned that women experiencing poverty and homelessness, and those who've survived domestic violence, especially indigenous women and women of color, are among populations disproportionately left out of the census. An accurate count can unlock more funding for much-needed services and programs.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

How can we help protect indigenous women? One way to stem the crisis is by ensuring our indigenous communities are seen in the #2020Census. The simple act of filling out your form can bring in resources to prevent violence against women and support those facing poverty or homelessness.

ABOUT

More than one million new immigrants come to the U.S. every year to build a new home or seek refuge. No matter your citizenship status, completing the 2020 Census is your right, and it's a way to build your newfound community, even if it is temporary.

Suggested Social Media Caption:

Are refugees counted in the census? Of course! Even if you're not a citizen or don't have documentation, if you're living in the U.S., you're a part of your community and you should be counted.

This isn't new. Non-citizens have been included in the census and for congressional representation throughout our history, including under both Republican and Democratic administrations.

Go to <http://2020Census.gov> and be seen. #CensusCounts
